Mrs. Perdue, 21, Is Thrown
Through Top of Car.

Mrs. Catherine Morgan, aged 58, and Mrs. Seba Perdue, aged 21, both colored of Chillicothe, were killed when the automobile driven by Mrs. Morgan's husband, Joseph Morgan, left the road at the Clifford Miller farm on the Scioto Trial south of the city at 11:30 a. m. Sunday. Mrs. Morgan died on the way to Chillicothe hospital in the Albaugh Co.'s ambulance, which answered the call, and Mrs. Perdue was instantly killed. She was taken to a tenant house on the Miller farm.

Fractured skulls proved fatal to both women.

Joseph Morgan, the driver of the car, a Chrysler four-door sedan, is in a critical condition in Chillicothe according to reports from that city.

BRAKES LOCKED

It is thought the accident occurred when Morgan tried to pass an automobile on the curve near Scippo Park while traveling at a high rate of speed. The front wheel brakes locked throwing the car from the road. Witnesses say the car crossed over four times in the field and stopped about 40 feet from the highway.

Mrs. Perdue, sitting in the rear seat of the car, was thrown through the top of the automobile. She was dead when passers-by found her body in the field.

Mrs. Morgan and her husband remained in the car, both seriously injured. The Albaugh Co. ambulance was summoned and an effort to reach the Chillicothe city hospital before death reached Mrs. Morgan was made, but proved futile.

The Lowery funeral home in Chillicothe was notified and a car was sent to claim the bodies.

Mrs. Morgan was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Powell and was born Mar. 31, 1872. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Roosevelt Hughes of Chillicothe. Funeral services for her will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. with burial in Chillicothe.

Mrs. Perdue was born in Rossco, Aug. 19, 1909, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomas. She was married in 1924 and is survived by her husband and three children, Ella, Tom and Nelson. Her father and five sisters also survive. Funeral services will be Wednesday morning at South Charleston with burial in the adjoining cemetery.

Cruising Time of MacLaren, Hart Is 20 Hours.

HORTA, Azores, Jan. 12.—Although 40 hours have elapsed since they have hopped off from Bermuda for the Azores on their New York-to-Paris payload flight, not a word had been heard locally of Mrs. Beryl Hart and William S. MacLaren and the Tradewind at 7:20 a. m. today (3:20 a. m. Eastern Standard time.)

Choppy seas continued to dim hopes for their safety. In leaving Hamilton, Bermuda, Mrs. Hart and MacLaren estimated they should sight the Azores within 18 or 20 hours, making them due here about 11:20 a. m. Sunday (7:20 eastern standard time.) The maximum cruising ability of the "Tradewind", on the basis of its reported fuel supply, would be approximately 20 hours aloft.

According to those estimates, the fliers should have been forced to land either on the ocean or coast early Sunday morning at the latest.

They hopped off from Bermuda in the face of unfavorable conditions, facing squalls and low ceilings in the 2,040-mile water stretch between the dots of land.

MacLaren, a former naval lieutenant, is an expert navigator, and Mrs. Hart is one of the few women pilots in the country to hold a transport license. However, it was pointed out by aviation experts that handicaps confronting those who ventured over the north Atlantic at this time of the year were almost insurmountable.

TEACHER HURT AS AUTO RUNS THROUGH LIGHT

Miss Jeanette Rowe, E. Main-
St., Bruised When Struck
Saturday.

DRIVER HUNTED

Accident Occurs at Corner of Court and Watt Sta.

Miss Jeanette Rowe, 130 1-2 E. Main-st., second grade teacher at Franklin-st. school, is confined to her home suffering from injuries she received at 8:30 p. m. Saturday when she was knocked to the pavement by a Ford roadster while crossing N. Court-st. from the telephone office to the east side of Court-st. The driver of the car failed to stop after the accident and police are investigating the accident in an effort to apprehend the driver of the automobile.

Miss Rowe is suffering from a cut in the head, a cut nose and an injured foot. Her condition is not thought serious.

SPED THROUGH LIGHT

She had been at the telephone company office and started from the west side of Court-st. across to the traction corner. She was almost to the curb when the Ford roadster, coming west on Watt-st., cut in front of several automobiles in an effort to make the green light before it changed, and struck her. She was knocked to the pavement and although injured, was not rendered unconscious.

Although there were many persons standing at the corner at the time of the accident it is not known whether anyone obtained the license number of the car. Police are working on the theory that the driver of the Ford sped away for the accident, turned east at the alley beside the Davidson hardware company, then after turning, one half block east turned north and then west at the Bremer garage alley, across Court-st. and to a location in the alley back of the Elks Home in N. Court-st.

Police then say that the persons in the car got out and went to the spot of the accident.

NO CHARGE FILED

No formal charge has yet been filed pending further investigation although police officers believe they know who was in the automobile which struck Miss Rowe.

She was taken to her home where she is under the attention of Dr. D. V. Courtwright.

During Miss Rowe's convalescence, Miss Mary Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Walters, R. F. D. 3, is substituting at her school.

H. DAY BECOMES OHIO TREASURER

POPULAR MARIETTA DEMOCRAT BECOMES OHIO GOVERNOR AND LONG CHEER OF VAST THRON

Jubilant Democrats, Defeated Republicans and Non-partisan
Witness Striking Ceremony at Noon Today; 17 Cannons
In State House Yard Salute New Executive;
Inaugural Address 15 Minutes Long.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—George White of Marietta today became Ohio's fifty-second governor.

Jubilant Democrats, dejected Republicans and well-wishing non-partisans thronged Columbus at noon to witness a simple but striking inaugural ceremony that opened a new chapter in the life of a man who already has been a Klondike prospector, congressman, oil man and financier.

At approximately one minute past noon Mr. White, a handsome man of 58, white-haired and partially bald, 6 feet tall and weighing 162 pounds, solemnly took the oath of office.

OATH ADMINISTERED

With his left hand on the old family Bible given him by his father and mother, and his right lifted, Mr. White repeated after Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court these words:

"I, George White, do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Ohio and that I will faithfully and honestly discharge and perform all the duties of the governor of the state of Ohio to the best of my ability and understanding. And this I do as I shall answer to God."

Democrats breathed easier. White, Democrat, was governor and Myers Y. Cooper, Republican, was on his way back to the estate business. That had been executive office at the state could no longer be questioned.

Loud-speakers carried the voices to the fringes of the crowd. When Chief Justice Marshall said "Mr. Governor, I congratulate you!" and extended his hand, spectators set up a long, low cheer, not much different from a cheer for a home run or a touchdown except that it resembled a Democratic war cry.

Chief Justice Marshall's address also was the cue for the firing of a salute of 17 guns from cannons in the state house yard.

COOPER LEAVES

A few minutes before, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, tired from an eight-hour work that kept him at his desk Sunday afternoon, trying to disguise his exhaustion with brisk step and broad smile had appeared to present to Mr. White the credentials of office.

His few lines in the dress spoken, Mr. Cooper briefly congratulated Mr. White, and, doing custom, promptly left scene.

He at once crossed the hall to a hotel where he and his wife have been living since he called the executive mansion Tuesday, joined her at her home and prepared to motor to Cincinnati and prepare for a vacation probably in Florida.

The new governor had more than enough time to receive congratulations from his daughters, Miss Mary and Charlotte; his two sons, Arthur and George, Jr., and Robert Kelly, New York, brother of late Mrs. White, Mrs. McKelvey, his daughter, Miss Margaret, before he started the inaugural dress, which required about minutes for delivery.

First degree murder convictions of persons who provide liquor which causes death would result from a part of the bill by which Senator Ackerman hopes to repeal the Crabbie act.

Introduction of the two Ackerman bills today followed as soon as was parliamentarily possible after his introduction last Tuesday of a measure designed to bring a referendum on the 18th amendment in this state.

TEACHER HURT AS AUTO RUNS THROUGH LIGHT

Miss Jeanette Rowe, E. Main-
St, Bruised When Struck
Saturday.

DRIVER HUNTED

Accident Occurs at Corner of Court and Watt Sts.

Miss Jeanette Rowe, 130 1-2 E. Main-st, second grade teacher at Franklin-st school, confined to her home suffering from injuries she received at 8:30 p. m. Saturday when she was knocked to the pavement by a Ford roadster while crossing N. Court-st from the telephone office to the east side of Court-st. The driver of the car failed to stop after the accident and police are investigating the accident in an effort to apprehend the driver of the automobile.

Miss Rowe is suffering from a cut in the head, a cut nose and an injured foot. Her condition is not thought serious.

SPED THROUGH LIGHT

She had been at the telephone company office and started from the west side of Court-st across to the traction corner. She was almost to the curbing when the Ford roadster, coming west on Watt-st, cut in front of several automobiles in an effort to make the green light before it changed, and struck her. She was knocked to the pavement and although injured was not rendered unconscious.

Although there were many persons standing at the corner at the time of the accident it is not known whether anyone obtained the license number of the car. Police are working on the theory that the driver of the Ford sped away for the accident, turned east at the alley beside the Davidson hardware company, then after turning one half block east turned north and then west at the Brehmer garage alley, across Court-st and to a location in the alley back of the Elks Home in N. Court-st.

Police then say that the persons in the car got out and went to the spot of the accident.

NO CHARGE FILED

No formal charge has yet been filed pending further investigation although police officers believe they know who was in the automobile which struck Miss Rowe.

She was taken to her home where she is under the attention of Dr. D. V. Courtright.

During Miss Rowe's convalescence, Miss Mary Walter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Walters, R. F. D. 3, is substituting at her school.

H. DAY BECOMES OHIO TREASURER

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Dispensing entirely with all ceremony and formalities, Harry S. Day of Fremont, Republican, today took his oath of office as state treasurer at 9:15 o'clock.

Only a few relatives and close friends witnessed the induction of the new state treasurer into office. The ceremony consisted of merely taking the oath of office and was entirely without the fanfare that was scheduled to attend the inauguration of other state officials later.

POPULAR MARIETTA DEMOCRAT BECOMES OHIO GOVERNOR AMID LONG CHEER OF VAST THROU

Jubilant Democrats, Defeated Republicans and Non-partisans
Witness Striking Ceremony at Noon Today; 17 Cannons
In State House Yard Salute New Executive;
Inaugural Address 15 Minutes Long.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—George White of Marietta today became Ohio's fifty-second governor.

Jubilant Democrats, dejected Republicans and well-wishing non-partisans thronged Columbus at noon to witness a simple but striking inaugural ceremony that opened a new chapter in the life of a man who already has been a Klondike prospector, congressman, oil man and financier.

At approximately one minute past noon Mr. White, a handsome man of 58, white-haired and partially bald, 6 feet tall and weighing 162 pounds, solemnly took the oath of office.

OATH ADMINISTERED

With his left hand on the old family Bible given him by his father and mother, and his right lifted, Mr. White repeated after Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court these words:

"I, George White, do solemnly swear that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Ohio and that I will faithfully and honestly discharge and perform all the duties of the governor of the state of Ohio to the best of my ability and understanding. And this I do as I shall answer to God."

Democrats breathed easier. Geo. White, Democrat, was governor, and Myers Y. Cooper, Republican, was on his way back to the real estate business. Their hold on the executive office at the state house could no longer be questioned.

Loud-speakers carried speakers' voices to the fringes of the crowd when Chief Justice Marshall said "Mr. Governor, I congratulate you!" and extended his hand, spectators set up a long, loud cheer, not much different from a cheer for a home run or a touchdown except that it resembled a Democratic war cry.

Chief Justice Marshall's action also was the cue for the firing of a salute of 17 guns from cannon in the state house yard.

COOPER LEAVES

A few minutes before, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, tired from eleven-hour work that kept him at his desk Sunday afternoon, but trying to disguise his exhaustion with brisk step and broad smile, had appeared to present to Mr. White the credentials of office.

His few lines in the drama spoken, Mr. Cooper briefly congratulated Mr. White, and, following custom, promptly left the scene.

He at once crossed the street to a hotel where he and Mrs. Cooper have been living since they vacated the executive mansion last Tuesday, joined her at luncheon, and prepared to motor to Cincinnati and prepare for a vacation, probably in Florida.

The new governor had little more than enough time to receive congratulations from his two daughters, Miss Mary and Miss Charlotte; his two sons, Robert and George, Jr., and Robert McKelvey, New York, brother of the late Mrs. White, Mrs. McKelvey and their daughter, Miss Margaret, before he started the inaugural address, which required about 15 minutes for delivery.

After the 112th Medical Regiment Band struck up "Hail to the Chief," formation of the parade, (Continued on Page Five.)

Dr. Stieglitz gave the cause of death as heart disease and high blood pressure.

According to the philanthropist's last wishes, his funeral services will be devoid of display. They will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. in Temple Emanuel. There will be no flowers.

The formal eulogy will be omitted and in its place Prof. William Lyons Phelps of Yale University will give a brief sketch of Straus's life. Burial will be in the family vault at Cypress Hills, Queens, New York.

ABANDON PLANS TO MERGE TWO NORTHERN RAILROADS

NEW YORK—Abandonment of the plan to merge the Northern Pacific Railway and the Great Northern, the so-called "Hill" roads were announced here today in an official statement by Charles Donnelly and Ralph Budd, presidents respectively of the two roads.

The statement of the two presidents said that until recently they had hoped to evolve a satisfactory plan of merger and that, were it not "impracticable at this time to carry through the plan of assuring an independent Burlington system, we should have submitted to the interstate commerce commission reasons more convincing than ever why the unification of the Northern should be authorized."

Efforts to merge the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads have been made at various times during the past twenty-five years. A few months ago it appeared that the project, first put forth by the late J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill, was about to be consummated. The release on which the latest attempts of the road-makers grounded was the release and segregation of the Burlington system, owned jointly by the two roads, and of which it was planned to create an independent road.

The presidents said in their statement that in conjunction with railway executives they have been "earnestly endeavoring to formulate a practical plan for the separation of the Burlington" but in spite of every effort, they have now reluctantly concluded that they cannot under present conditions devise a plan for the separation that they can recommend to stockholders. Accordingly the unification application, which has been pending since July 1927 is to be withdrawn.

It was also pointed out that the price of the Burlington stock, like all railroad stocks, declined sharply in recent months, so that the sale now by the controlling roads (Great Northern and Northern Pacific) would be at depressed quotations.

The joint statement of the railroad presidents also stresses the need for relief in the railroad situation in the northwest.

LA PAZ, Bolivia—Parliamentary government will be resumed here February 23, when the junta at present in control will hand official affairs to Dr. Daniel Salamanca, newly elected president. The new Congress will convene also on that date.

PANAMA LEADER SENT BACK HOME

COLON, Panama.—Former President Florencio Arosemena of Panama was brought back to Colon today after an ineffective attempt to leave the country aboard the S. S. California.

Accompanied by his family, the deposed president journeyed to Balboa, and was boarding the liner for Los Angeles when officials of the new revolutionary regime prevented him from leaving. They ruled he must stay in the country pending a prose of disposition of public funds by his regime.

Spain today recognized the new Panamanian regime, informing the government through its ambassador, the Margues De Los Arcos, that the change in no way affects diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Men who "point to prosperity" give us new courage, but of infinitely more value are those who lead us there.

PANAMA LEADER SENT BACK HOME

COLON, Panama.—Former President Florencio Arosemena of Panama was brought back to Colon today after an ineffective attempt to leave the country aboard the S. S. California.

Accompanied by his family, the deposed president journeyed to Balboa, and was boarding the liner for Los Angeles when officials of the new revolutionary regime prevented him from leaving. They ruled he must stay in the country pending a prose of disposition of public funds by his regime.

Spain today recognized the new Panamanian regime, informing the government through its ambassador, the Margues De Los Arcos, that the change in no way affects diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Men who "point to prosperity" give us new courage, but of infinitely more value are those who lead us there.

THERE is no news at the Motor Shows of comparable importance to this announcement by Studebaker—Free Wheeling with positive gear control is now yours in Studebaker's brilliant new Six.

The two finest cars in America have now adopted Free Wheeling as first introduced in Studebaker Eights on July 10, 1930.

Experience the marvel of Free Wheeling for yourself in this big 114-inch wheelbase Studebaker Six. It harnesses momentum and puts it to work—allows the engine to "rest" two miles out of every ten—insures an actual saving of 12% to 20% in gasoline and oil.

You drive as in a conventional car. Yet you need not use the clutch at all in making your most important shifts—from second to high or from high back to second. You make these shifts easily, silently, at any speed. The full braking power of the engine is instantly available.

Take nobody's word for Free Wheeling. See this new Studebaker Six—drive it. It is backed by Studebaker's 79 years of manufacturing success and integrity.

DOOMED!

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Cecile's Interest in Cyril Revealed.

CHAPTER XLVI.

"BEAUTIFUL but crazy!"

Mary raged to Tom when they driving down the grade in the quiet evening light. "But what can I do? She's of age—and in her right mind, though she doesn't act it!" After a moment of silence she burst out vigorously.

"And moreover, she's dead right!

I'd do the same thing if it were

Fred lying there in Ken Gleason's place."

But Mary's generous opinion, or the world's spiteful one, made little difference after all to Ar-deith.

Tranquil days and deep, star-filled nights, each one bringing returning strength to Ken. Little by little reality pushed in upon him once more. He watched the girl moving about the room and his mind groped back over the past days. Something like terror came into his eyes.

"It's all wrong, dear," he said slowly. "Oh, you shouldn't have done this! What will people—what will everyone say? And—his thin hands moved nervously.

"I can't make it right for you."

Ardeith had been sitting by the window shelling peas for dinner.

She rose and came over to his side. She held his head against her breast, kissed his closed eyes.

"It's all right now," she said softly. "It's only wrong when we're apart, Ken."

Idle Gossip.

Down in the city the affair

created a large ripple of excited gossip. The Spy seized upon it agely and carried an insinuating article blustering with innuendoes.

Cecile was furious with anger.

"She did not love Ken but she had no intention that another woman should have him. She put on the role of the outraged wife and spite harmed her tongue."

"That is the woman who ruined

my married life," she stated drastically, her green-blue eyes flashing. "I wish I could see her again. I wish I could see her

again. I wish I could see her

again. I wish I could see her

again. I wish I could see her

again. I wish I could see her again. I wish I could see her

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

If you like laughs combined with mystery you will enjoy William Haines in "Remote Control," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talkie which opened Sunday at the Clif-tona Theater.

In this pictureization of the New York stage hit Haines plays the part of a radio announcer who gets his station mixed up with a gang of bandits who use the broadcast plant as a means of communication. A "Clairvoyant" who conducts radio talks acts as the master mind.

Haines is one of the most hilarious scenes ever filmed, finds his station short of talent. In despiration he puts on the whole program himself, offering a bedtime story as well as impersonating Amos 'n' Andy. It is this discovered ability as a vocal mimic that enables him to extricate himself from disaster and lead to the arrest of the bandits after a sensational robbery in which he finds himself implicated.

AT THE GRAND

With Betty Compton starring in "Behind the Lines" in the feature picture and the Varieties of 1930 being presented in a three unit performance the Grand theater is offering a real attraction Monday and Tuesday.

wood, who sings and dances; Ben Harney and Miss Haynes in a ragtime frolic, Happy Hal Crider and Miss Spinner in a lesson of acrobatic foolology make up the array of stars the stage play is presenting.

SAY DAVIS HAD LITTLE CONTEST

WASHINGTON Senator James J. Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, really had "no contest" for his nomination and required little financial and Charles B. Hall member of the Philadelphia Republic "war board" declared today in a letter to the Nye campaign fund committee.

Hall declared the real contest in last summer's Pennsylvania primary was the fight of Francis Shink Brown and Gifford Pughet for the Republican nomination for governor. He insisted that but five per cent of the money spent in the campaign by the Davis-Brown organization was used in behalf of Davis.

Poor Walking Posture
a Cause of Flat Feet

Slouching Results in Strained Foot Muscles

Weak Feet Is One of the Most Common Complaints of Modern Life, Says Dr. Copeland, Urging an Upright Carriage and Daily Foot Exercises.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

PRIMITIVE people who go about barefooted or wear sandals never complain of weak feet. On the other hand, the most common complaint of civilized life is weak feet, or as the trouble is commonly called,
"flat feet."

Flat feet are the result of poor development of the muscles of the feet and legs.
Some persons are born with weak feet, but poor posture in walking and the wearing of improper shoes are the most important causative factors. Work that necessitates standing continuously on hard floors and pavements are other causes.

Stout people are more likely to have weak and painful feet than thin people. They carry more weight and this places a greater burden on the arches.

The Heredity Myth

ABOUT 20 years ago eugenicists were sure that the millennium had dawned. A mysterious principle called "heredity" shaped the destiny of living things. Environment was helpless. Thieves and morons, poets and philanthropists, were the products of their ancestors. Prof. Karl Pearson did more than any other eugenicist to spread the doctrine.

Scientific legislation was then proposed to cure all social ills. The formula was simple. Like produces like. Therefore, give heredity full play by judicious mating. By preventing the physically and morally unfit from breeding, insane asylums and prisons would be closed in a generation. By giving superior stock a freer opportunity for development, a biological aristocracy would rule the earth.

There is no denying the tremendous importance of heredity in shaping the course of such criminal families as the Jukes of New York and the Zeros of Europe. But weeding them out will not make the future of the race more certain.

The heredity theory is a neat and plausible one; but it doesn't tell the whole story. Heredity plays its part in the shaping of future generations, but another factor in the rise and decline of the race is environment, and how the two interplay is not yet entirely clear.

Weak and short-lived parents may have strong children of great longevity. A fine generation with strong eyes may spring from one with weak eyes. Foolishness and sloth may be the mother and father of ability. And when they are, who is to say whether it was heredity or environment, or both?

It follows that, for the present at least, mankind must be left to its own devices and great men be permitted to appear as sporadically as they have in the past.

Weak and short-lived parents may have strong children of great longevity. A fine generation with strong eyes may spring from one with weak eyes. Foolishness and sloth may be the mother and father of ability. And when they are, who is to say whether it was heredity or environment, or both?

Great Names

SHOULD mountains, rivers, lakes be named after living men and women? They sometimes are. In spite of recent controversies raised by this very question, some states even now are christening mountains, valleys and other natural landmarks with the names of public figures.

Discoverers themselves have often sought to honor in this way persons who had taken part in their expedition or supported it. The practice can be carried too far, however, and is plainly open to criticism when the service rendered is not commensurate with the dignity accorded, or when a new name is given to a natural object already familiarly known by some more ancient and appropriate designation.

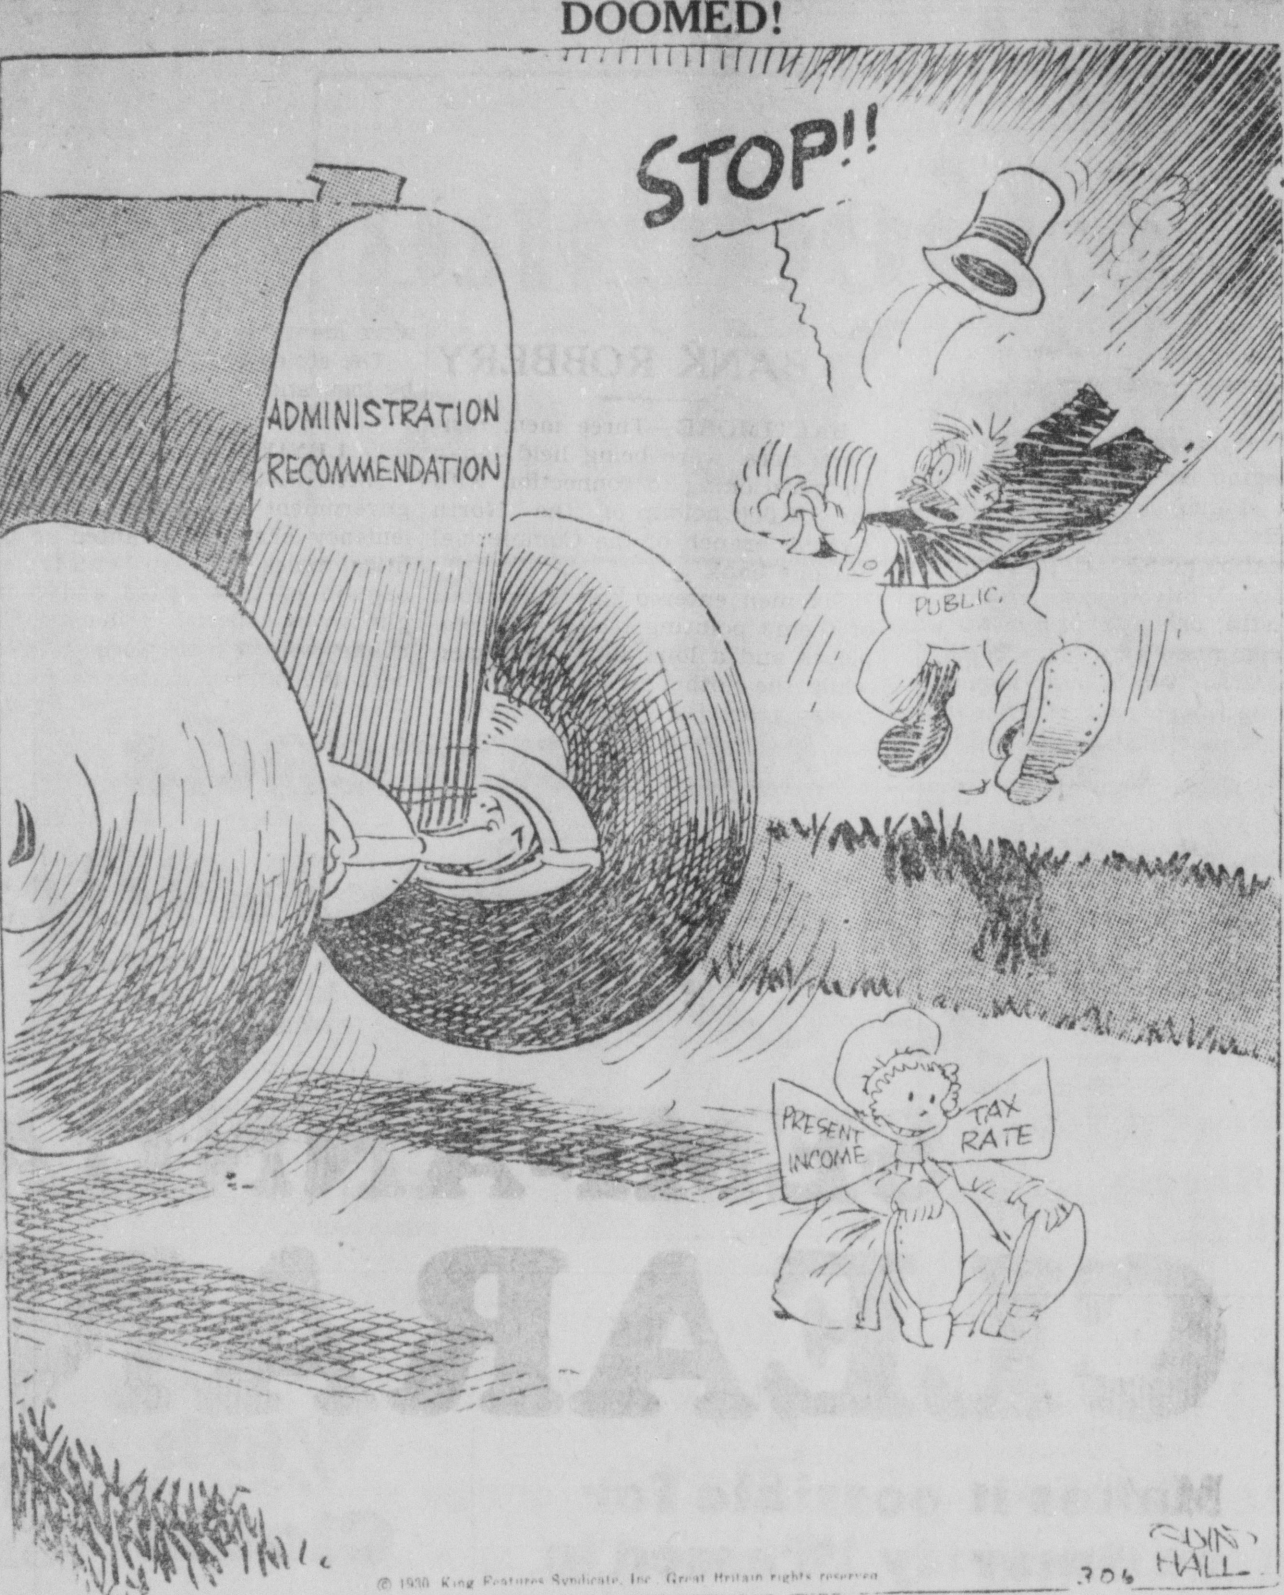

Some years ago such confusion arose in the government maps, and conflicts between different departments became so frequent, that the president established the United States geographical board to pass on all place names and give them official sanction. It was no easy task. The board has had to settle all manner of disputes many of them bitter. Generally, it prefers designations which are rooted in tradition. Usage is allowed to supersede science, even when I Eau Fraîche has been corrupted into Low Freight. Commonly, too, the board has stood against giving to natural objects the names of living persons, although it has sometimes met with determined opposition on that score.

There may be exceptional cases, but it is usually more appropriate to wait until a man dies and finds his place in history before according him such an honor. Let those who would honor their contemporaries be content with labeling street corners with their names.

Slavery

FROM those who ask tolerance expect intolerance. He who asks pity may be pitiless. The socialist and communist believe in the common ownership of property only as long as they have no property. Give them wealth and property and they become arch capitalists. The same is true of the radical, who, given authority, becomes a rank reactionary. And goes to the opposite extreme, and vice versa.

But one would have looked for complete emancipation and the fullest liberty in a country conceived in liberty, dedicated to freedom, and whose very name means the land of liberty. Yet slavery

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

Cecile's Interest in Cyril Revealed.

CHAPTER XLVI.

"BEAUTIFUL but crazy!" Mary raged to Tom when they had left and were driving down the grade in the quiet evening light. "But what can I do? She's of age—and in her right mind, though she doesn't act it!" After a moment of silence she burst out vigorously. "And moreover, she's dead right! I'd do the same thing if it were Fred lying there in Ken Gleason's place."

But Mary's generous opinion, or the world's spiteful one, made little difference after all to Ardet. Tranquil days and deep, star-filled nights, each one bringing returning strength to Ken. Little by little reality pushed in upon him once more. He watched the girl moving about the room and his mind groped back over the past days. Something like terror came into his eyes.

"It's all wrong, dear," he said slowly. "Oh, you shouldn't have done this! What will people—what will everyone say? And—his thin hands moved nervously. "I can't make it right for you."

Ardet had been sitting by the window shelling peas for dinner. She rose and came over to his side. She held his head against her breast, kissed his closed eyes. "It's all right now," she said softly. "It's only wrong when we're apart, Ken."

Idle Gossip.

Down in the city the affair created a large ripple of excited gossip. The Spy seized upon it eagerly and carried an insinuating article blistering with innuendoes. Cecile was furious with anger. She did not love Ken but she had no intention that another woman should have him. She put on the role of the outraged wife and spite sharpened her tongue.

"That is the woman who ruined my married life," she stated dramatically, her green-blue eyes flashing hatred. "Ken has been carrying on this affair all these years—that is really why I left him."

From lip to lip it went, repeated avidly, hurting those who loved the girl. Hurting loyal Tom and Mary; making little Ah Ling's black eyes flash with rage.

Ah Ling—that curious link in the chain of circumstances. The link Cecile had never considered. And Cecile had forgotten, too, that when a link is worn too thin it will snap.

Upon Tom had fallen the task of closing the shop and selling the stock which still remained.

The small store was haunted with memories for him. Memories of quiet evenings when he had called on Ardet, remembering the twilight on her hair the first day when she had bought the shop from Jeanette. The memory of that first day when he had come in here with Ken and had seen her, still flourishes in Liberia.

Liberia was founded in 1822 as a colony for freed American slaves. With the assistance of American colonization societies the foundation was laid for a black republic. In 1847 Liberia became an independent nation, peopled entirely by the African race, with constitution patterned after that of the United States.

An international commission has found that nearly all the high offia vivid and lovely child in black. As though someone had died—working here in this still place which would never know Ardet again. What would life do to her, he wondered, now that she had so carelessly defied it? Somber days, when he dismantled the place, quietly helped by little Ah Ling. Had Tom been less concerned with his own unhappy thoughts he would have seen that the little Chinese girl was fighting a mental battle.

But not until the last day, when Tom was checking over the last of the accounts, was Ah Ling's battle lost—or won.

On that day the spiteful article in The Spy appeared and the Chinese girl had learned of it by the curious wireless which scandal travels.

Tom was sitting at the cash desk, figuring, when he heard his name called. Ah Ling stood before him, a small figure of jade in her green brocade trousers and coat, and she was laboring under intense excitement. She shook a copy of The Spy at Tom.

"Have you seen this? What they dare to write about Miss Carroll?" The man's face darkened. "Well... never mind, Ah Ling. There are always rats in the world, you know."

The slant black eye flashed. "There should be rat catchers to catch those rats." She caught her breath, suddenly blurted out, "Do you know—who is this spy?"

Tom's eye went wide with amazement at what he read in her face. "You know?"

"Cyril Underhill!"

Tom's hand was lying on the desk and it crumpled into a broad, freckled fist.

"How do you know that, Ah Ling?"

Important Information.

"My cousin Lee, he is the cook for Mr. Underhill. He knows much of the private affairs of this gentleman!" Ah Ling's lip curled. "Did you notice this—this sort of hatred with which he writes? Do you wonder why that hatred is there, Mr. Corbett?" The words were pouring from her lips in a frightened torrent. "I will tell you. It is because Mrs. Gleason hates Miss Carroll. She has great influence with The Spy—has Mrs. Gleason. She is often a visitor at Mr. Underhill's apartment. A very favorite visitor"—she finished insinuatingly.

"You mean?"

Rosie Ling's face was red, but she was valiant.

"A Chinese boy about an apartment sees much. Mr. Corbett. And Chinese tell little to white people. But I know much—that Mrs. Gleason does not think I know. Much that it would worry her to guess I know. And Miss Carroll was always kind to me."

Tom's face was very serious. He got up and walked over to the girl to stand looking down into the small, intense face.

"You mean, Ah Ling, that—that you want me to believe that Mrs. Gleason has been baving indiscreet visits to Mr. Underhill's apartment?" Tom's conventional tongue found difficulty in finding fitting words.

Ah Ling looked frightened, but she stuck stoutly by her guns. Her face was poppy red.

"Would you call a visit of several days when she is supposed to be down South—indiscreet, Mr. Corbett?"

"My... gosh!" breathed Tom, fervently. Then, with mounting anger: "And the dirty little cat had the indecency to speak that way of Ardet!"

"That's why I tell you!" Ah Ling's voice broke and her face was working. "She has always been so good to me, Miss Carroll has. So gentle. And they—they tear her to pieces now!"

"Bully for you!" Tom exploded.

"I do not like to make trouble," Ah Ling explained earnestly. "My Cousin Lee will be very angry that I have—have spilled the beans. But there are times when one must spill the beans. Isn't that right, Mr. Corbett?"

"Right as rain!"

"And—the girl went on breathlessly. "Mrs. Gleason is bad at heart and Miss Carroll is always kind. It is not good that the good should suffer for the bad. And I am telling this to you because you will know what to do. I will stick to it, Mr. Corbett. And if you make him, my Cousin Lee, he will have to tell the truth even though he will be very angry at me. But I'm doing it for Miss Carroll. I don't care, if it will help her—"

Ah Ling had begun to cry. She pulled her beret hard down on her head and groped her way out of the front door.

Tom was overwhelmed by the knowledge so astonishingly handed to him. His first feeling was blind rage at Cecile and Cyril Underhill. In his fancy he was crashing his fist full into the sneering face of the man.

Powerful Weapon.

But his usual cool judgment quickly followed on the heels of this. Wouldn't do, just to raise a row... Get the thing into the daily papers... That wouldn't be so clever. Ah Ling had placed a powerful weapon in his hands. He must use it to the best advantage when he struck for Ardet.

A few moments of deep thought, then Tom put on his hat and left, locking the front door of the little shop.

When Tom climbed the front steps of the Parker home and asked for Mrs. Gleason, Cecile sent back word that she was not well and asked to be excused.

Tom checked a grim smile. He had never been a favorite with Cecile; still less so, he imagined, since he had been attentive to Ardet.

He drew a card from his pocket and wrote on the back. Replacing it on the butler's tray, he directed, "Take that to Mrs. Gleason and tell her that I will await her."

Poor Walking Posture a Cause of Flat Feet
Slouching Results in Strained Foot Muscles

Weak Feet Is One of the Most Common Complaints of Modern Life, Says Dr. Copeland, Urging an Upright Carriage and Daily Foot Exercises.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

PRIMITIVE people who go about barefooted or wear sandals never complain of weak feet. On the other hand, the most common complaint of civilized life is weak feet, or as the trouble is commonly called, "flat feet."

Flat feet are the result of poor development of the muscles of the feet and legs. Some persons are born with weak feet, but poor posture in walking and the wearing of improper shoes are the most important causative factors. Work that necessitates standing continuously on hard floors and pavements are other causes.

Stout people are more likely to have weak and painful feet than thin people. They carry more weight and this places a greater burden on the arches.

The treatment of weak feet consists essentially in the proper development of the muscles of the feet and legs. To this end proper posture in walking and the use of sensible footwear are of great importance.

A flat foot is a weak foot, one in which the muscles have thoroughly relaxed. As a result of this relaxation the normal arch of the foot is no longer maintained. This change from the normal brings on pain in the foot, and frequently this is very severe. The pain may not be confined to the foot, it may be felt up the back of the leg.

People with flat feet cannot stand for any length of time. Walking is an effort, and they are only happy when they can be off their feet.

Answers to Health Queries

Miss S. O. Q.—What causes hives? Can you suggest a remedy?

2.—What is the cause of enlarged veins in the hands and wrists?

A.—Hives are usually due to some food which causes irritation. Yes.

2.—Poor circulation is usually responsible. Build up your general health and increase your circulation.

E. F. R. Q.—What causes white spots on the hands?

A.—This is due to loss of pigment or coloring matter.

B. V. Q.—Does yellow oxide ointment harm the eyes?

A.—No.

J. L. Q.—How much should a girl of 16, 5 ft. 2 ins. tall weigh?

2.—Will carbolic vaseline used on the eyelashes prove harmful?

A.—She should weigh about 114 pounds. When I give you these figures you will understand I am speaking about the average person. If these show you are a few pounds under or a few pounds above this weight, you must not feel that fact has any particular significance. The figures, as I have said, indicate merely the average weight as discovered by the examination of a large number of persons.

2.—Plain vaseline is better.

"Eager to Know." Q.—What treatment do you advise for enlarged pores?

A.—Try using hot and cold compresses alternately for fifteen minutes night and morning.

H. V. Q.—What will fatten the face?

A.—Try to gain weight in general. Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Exercise daily in the open air, practice deep breathing. As a tonic take cod liver oil after meals.

A. B. Q.—What do you advise me to use for falling hair?

A.—Frequent shampooing and the use of a good stimulating ointment should help the condition.

WASHINGTON.—A vacancy was created at the treasury department today that Secretary Mellon will not find it easy to fill. It is the job held for many years by Joseph S. McCoy, 67, who died suddenly yesterday while parking his automobile in the downtown section.

McCoy was recognized as a wizard at mathematics throughout the country. He toyed with problems totalling in the millions of dollars and got the accurate figure quickly while others less-blessed mathematicians would require days and perhaps weeks to figure.

He lived at Beltsville, in Maryland, and is survived by his widow, six daughters and two sons.

COMPLETE ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GEORGE WHITE GIVEN

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—"I shall ask for, and expect to receive legislative cooperation."

With this warning to a Republican legislature in his inaugural address, George White of Marietta, today carried Democratic ideals and principles into the gubernatorial office of Ohio which was vacated in his favor by the people of the state last Nov. 4.

The inaugural address of the state's new chief executive was delivered with characteristic brevity before an assemblage of Ohio dignitaries. It was, for the most part, a renewal of pledges made during his campaign for election. But in it also was a vigorous note that outlined the plans he has in mind "in ridding the state of her governmental ills, and in making government in Ohio a vital, responsive thing, functioning to the interest of all the people."

LAW'S IMPORTANT

Pointing out that the immediate problems of government in Ohio are of tremendous importance to the people of the state, Mr. White urged "cooperation to the utmost between all of the chosen representatives of the people, without regard to politics or petty personal interest."

Taxation, welfare and economy were the other highnotes stressed by the governor. In addition he made it plain by reiteration that he intends to make his government one "by the people."

With regard to taxation, Governor White declared:

"Having in mind that in a true democracy we must ever concede the supreme right of the people themselves to rule, I shall recommend that taxation legislation be submitted to the people for the exercise of their solemn right of referendum, unless such legislation as may be enacted affords reasonable satisfaction to all concerned."

Governor White stated that he would abide by his previously-made pledges—"that in any new system of taxation, the burdens of those who for so long a time have paid more than their just share, namely, the farmer and home owner, shall not be increased."

"I have further pledged that no new imposts shall be levied upon our wage and salary earners until the effort is honestly made to bring out from hiding those billions in intangible property heretofore escaping scot free and requiring their owners to pay their just and reasonable share of taxes," Mr. White said.

WELFARE PROBLEM

Pointing to the Ohio penitentiary disaster of last year as the "gaunt, stark tragedy that has caused us almost to hang our heads in shame," the governor declared that the welfare problem of the state must be faced and a right solution found immediately.

"The task is a large one," he said, "made all the more so by our years of seeming indifference and neglect. The solution of the problem by means of temporary makeshifts to tide over the crisis during the period of our own immediate generation will not do. We owe it to posterity that such measures as we take shall have in mind the needs of future generations."

With regard to state finances, Mr. White pointed to the warning just given by the chief fiscal officer of reduced revenues which may be anticipated for the state treasury during the next two years.

"We stand pledged to economy in the expenditures for administrative cost of the state government," he declared.

It was at this point that the governor directed his warning to the state legislators with the statement that "I shall ask for, and expect to receive, legislative cooperation."

"The specific duties imposed by the constitution and laws upon the governor, both affirmative and negative," he said, must be carried out; as the one in whom the supreme executive power of the state is vested, it is the duty of the governor to see to it that others vested with executive authority carry out the specific mandates of the constitution and laws."

YEAR TRYING

The year in retrospect, the governor said, has been a most trying one. He pointed to the effects of the drought, "still uneradic-ed," and also to the general economic situation "still in a sad state of maladjustment," and the suffering due to nationwide unemployment.

"We found ourselves fighting with our backs to the wall," he said. "Whatever the cause and whatever the justification or blame for conditions which exist, the active aid and assistance of all will be required in their righting. As your governor, I pledge that I shall to the extent of my ability, do my part. I ask that you as citizens, do yours."

UTILITIES HEAD DIES IN SOUTH

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.—The body of Charles McKubin, 71, vice president and general manager of the Glen Hays Coal and Gas Company at Glen Hays, W. Va., near here, was sent to Annapolis, Md., where burial was made Sunday afternoon.

McKubin, who died Thursday, was buried in Annes cemetery, formerly known as "Strawberry Hill."

The Glen Hays company, of which McKubin was one of the founders, is one of the largest utility concerns in the state.

He was the son of a prominent pioneer family of St. Paul, Minn. His marriage to Miss Lydia Johnson, of New York, in 1910, at the Little Church Around the Corner was one of the outstanding social events of the season.

McKubin is survived by his widow and a sister, Miss Kate McKubin, of Baltimore, Md.

several miles long and with a Marietta regiment, the 168th, and Troop E, of the Ohio National Guard, as escort for the governor's party in eight cars, was started.

MARCH DOWNTOWN

Soldiers, sailors, police, veteran organizations and hundreds of Democrats in their local delegations, marched downtown streets from 1 p. m. to nearly 3 p. m. when the governor left it near the state house to enter the reviewing stand.

The governor's long afternoon of hand-shaking was to start immediately after the parade. State legislators were to be first in line, with the general public and members of visiting organizations next.

The task was expected to take several hours, and a reception for newspaper men in a hotel tonight was to be the concluding event in the official inaugural program.

Sunday was a quiet day at home for Mr. White. With his family and Mr. and Mrs. McKelvy and daughter, he attended a Presbyterian church near the governor's residence in the forenoon.

Rising early this morning, Mr. White, in top hat and other accessories to formal wear, other members of the family and his guests, all dressed formally, were ready for the Democratic notification committee when it called at 9:30 a. m.

Mr. White really "took office" two hours before the inaugural ceremony. Governor Cooper vacated the executive office before 10 a. m. to give the new governor opportunity to hold a reception for distinguished guests there.

More than 200 attended, and among them were Former Governors James M. Cox and Vic Donahey, and many prominent Ohio Democrats.

RECEPTION NEXT

All proceeded to a reception for distinguished guests at a hotel near the state house. Mr. White and his party then left for the capitol.

Singing by the Democratic glee club, singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the audience, and invocation by Rev. E. B. Townsend, of Mr. White's own church at Marietta, preceded presentation of the commission by Mr. Cooper.

Governor White will begin occupying the governor's office in the state house Tuesday morning. His first major act will be the delivery of an address to both houses of the legislature in joint session at 1:45 p. m. Tuesday.

ARREST 3 FOR BANK ROBBERY

BALTIMORE—Three men, residents here, were being held today for questioning in connection with the $15,000 holdup of the North Avenue branch of the Commercial Savings bank.

Six men entered the bank, four of them pointing pistols at employees and a lone man customer, while the other two took the money from the cashier's cage. Those held are: Irvan Schwartz, 24; Nicholas Lochetto, 28; and Philip Glardina, 26. Police claimed they found a pistol in Glardina's pocket. They were paraded before bank employees but the police did not say whether they were identified as the bandits. The stolen money was covered by insurance.

LENIENCY GRANTED

SAO PAULO—The provisional government has announced that leniency has been granted to political exiles of Brazil, with the exception of those tried and found guilty by special tribunals. GARDEN TO PROMOTE TITLE TANGLE OUTSIDE NEW YORK

BY HYPE IGONE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Madison Square Garden corporation intends to exercise its contract with Max Schmeling, calling for a world's title heavyweight bout by bringing Schmeling and Bill Stribling together for the championship outside of New York, in conjunction with the milk fund committee.

Naturally this at once appears like open defiance of the New York Athletic commission. It may even bring about a serious breach between the board and the house that Tex built.

The corporation has this thought in mind. It holds a bonafide contract with the world's champion—at least with Herr Max Schmeling. New York doesn't recognize Max as the crown bearer at present.

The contract with Schmeling was made last May 16 while Schmeling was training for Jack Sharkey.

SCHMELING STUBBORN

The corporation has been advised by its legal cheer leaders that the contract is as solid as the rock Gibraltar and that the boxing commission had no legal right in tossing it out of the window when they suspended Max and withdrew recognition of his championship, when Max refused to keep a verbal promise, to fight Jack Sharkey.

This contract was made by Max to the commission without regard for the Garden contract. Holding that the board is without power to scrap that contract, the Garden forces have decided to join the milk fund committee in the promotion of the bout between Schmeling and Stribling for the title.

The bout, according to Damon Runyon, boss of the milk fund bouts, will not go to Chicago. More likely it will go to Jersey City, Detroit is another spot and so is Philadelphia, though, right now, if work can be rushed on the Jersey City stadium so that it can be completed by June or July, the bout is almost certain to be fought there.

Madison Square Garden holds several working charters in different places the ones that Tex Rickard used in Philadelphia and Chicago being two of them. The Garden has working papers that can be used in Jersey City, Detroit and even Toledo, if it comes to that.

MAY END IN COURT

The whole business might wind up in a court of law should the New York board, in retaliation for what would amount to les majeste, decide to suspend the greatest show house in the world for using Schmeling.

It is against the commission rules for a club or a promoter to deal with a suspended fighter. That is just the point. Can the commission scrap the Garden contract which it holds on Schmeling's services? That, it would seem is a point for the courts to settle.

Lawyers claim that the commission has overstepped its powers in ruling out the Garden contract. If the corporation does take the bout outside of New York, and the commission suspends the Garden as a boxing club in this city, then the legal war would be on.

The rich and powerful organization could force a showdown. The commission would be haled into court to show cause why it should not be restrained from issuing such a suspension or possibly the revocation of the Garden's license for one year.

No matter which way the cat jumps, poor Sharkey is left out in the cold. Neither Schmeling nor Stribling will have any part of him, and he can't even win the synthetic New York title. He has nobody to fight.

Pa Stribling left Madison Square Garden Saturday night with a contract for the fight between his boy and Schmeling. He did not sign at the time. He wanted to go over the terms written into the document before he placed his name on the dotted line.

He will return to the Garden today, prepared to sign for the bout which, outside of New York, will be called a world's title affair.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas.—Three hundred men will return to work Jan. 19 at the Universal Atlas Cement plant here, it was announced today. Operations in the plant were suspended three weeks ago.

TWO BUCK TEAMS MAKE APPEARANCE

COLUMBUS, O.—Varsity swimming and water polo squads made their 1931 debut this week at Ohio State University. On Friday the first swimming team in Ohio State history is to make its bow against Western Reserve at Cleveland.

The water polo team, under Coach Bernard Mooney, also makes its first 1931 appearance against Western Reserve on Saturday afternoon. The bouts are to be held in the men's gymnasium. Due to graduation leave, Ohio State must depend to a great extent upon sophomore material.

Another feature of the week's activities will be the first "double header" basketball game for Ohio State. Both the Indiana varsity and "B" teams will be met Monday at Bloomington. This will be the third game in seven days for the Buckeyes and the first time that the Ohio State reserve squad has appeared on the same floor with the varsity in a Big Ten match.

On Saturday night, Michigan's floor forces invade Columbus for the last at-home basketball game for a month. The Buckeyes will not return to their own floor until February 16 when Chicago comes here.

DEMPSEY SAYS STRIB IS BEST

Puts Schmeling Second and Sharkey Third; Says He Can Whip Gob.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Jack Dempsey rates W. L. (Young) Stribling, the rejuvenated Georgian, as the best heavyweight fighter in the world today. The ex-champion puts Max Schmeling, stripped of his title in New York, in second place and revives the old feud with Jack Sharkey by placing the Boston Gob third.

Dempsey's rankings of the world boxers for 1930 are made in a copyright article in the February issue of The Ring, international boxing magazine.

"In my opinion the best of the present field of heavyweights is Young Stribling, the pride of Georgia," says Dempsey. "I fully realize that Jack Sharkey is still the American champion and the choice of the New York Boxing commission and that he beat Stribling two years ago, but that does not alter the fact that on their relative performances of 1930, Stribling is ahead of Sharkey."

"Although Sharkey had Schmeling well beaten when he threw that punch that caused his disqualification, we must take that into consideration in ranking the leaders. Sharkey has had so many chances to come through to the top and failed that I do not believe he deserves a better rating than third."

"If Sharkey should have 10 more opportunities to win the crown, he still will fall short of the mark. Were I to attempt a comeback, as poor as I might physically be, there is one heavyweight I'm sure I can lick—none other than Jack Sharkey."

Dempsey predicted that Stribling would whip Schmeling. After Sharkey, he rates Primo Carnera and Griffiths as best of the remaining heavyweights.

County Boy Makes Good In Navy Ring

MICKEY "BAT" FANNIN

In February, 1927, a young man from Circleville, Ohio joined the U. S. Navy. After the regular training station period he was sent to duty on board the U. S. S. Colorado.

No one paid much attention to him. He was generally seen in the vicinity of the boxing stable through. Finally he appeared in a pair of trunks and boxing shoes. He had made his entry into the realm of fistiana. From that time on his progress has been unusually rapid. In the three years that he has been fighting he has climbed from the depths of obscurity to be a shining light in the boxing circles of the Navy. Although he has never held the coveted belt he is considered one of the best, if not the best welterweight boxer in the Navy. This young man is none other than our own Mickey "Bat" Fannin.

His reputation as a great fighter soon leaked out into the civilian world and he was persuaded to engage in a few professional bouts. He proved to be such a crowd pleaser that he is now much in demand on the Pacific Coast. He has met and defeated such good boys as: Patty Coggins, former lightweight champion of the Pacific coast, K. O. Eddie Roberts, Johnny "Kid" Christmas, Tony Cardozo, Jack Sweeney, the junior welterweight champion of Canada, Joe Carter, that boy who gave the present welterweight champ of the world, Young Jack Thompson, such a tough battle and many others. Mickey has never been knocked out and has never lost a professional battle although he has lost three decisions in the Navy. His is a fighting Irish heart. He is a crowd pleaser at all times and should go a long way in the squared circle. He is now in training and soon will invade New York City.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fannin, R. F. D. 3, this city.

Gray will be returned immediately.

OHIO TO MEET INDIANA FIVE

Tuck Back Tough Wisconsin Team in First Conference Tilt Saturday.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—With the Western Conference game on the books in the form of a basketball match, the Ohio State basketball team began its attack on other schools today. The Bucks will meet Indiana on the Hoosier court at Bloomington tonight and clash with the Michigan Wolverines here Saturday night.

Ohio State by virtue of its 29 to 19 win over the creek Wisconsin Dec. Saturday night, jumped into fourth place for first place in the conference standings with Northwestern, Chicago and Minnesota.

Chicago nosed out Indiana, 28 to 27, in an overtime battle, giving promises of a tough assignment for the Osenites tonight. Purdue swamped Illinois, 30 to 15; Minnesota defeated Iowa, 26 to 22 and Northwestern topped Michigan, 27 to 22.

By winning its game against Wisconsin, the rejuvenated Ohio State quintet indicated that it will be a troublesome cog for the championship contenders of the conference. The Scarlet and Gray five is not considered as a title contender but it will be a tough hurdle for those who will be in the race. One of the best championship races in the Big Ten for several years is promised for this season.

GARDEN TO PROMOTE TITLE TANGLE OUTSIDE NEW YORK

BY HYPE IGOE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Madison Square Garden corporation intends to exercise its contract with Max Schmeling, calling for a world's title heavyweight bout, by bringing Schmeling and Bill Stribling together for the championship—outside of New York, in conjunction with the milk fund committee.

Naturally this at once appears like open defiance of the New York Athletic commission. It may even bring about a serious breach between the board and the house that Tex built.

The corporation has this thought in mind. It holds a bonifide contract with the world's champion—at least with Herr Max Schmeling. New York doesn't recognize Max as the crown bearer at present.

The contract with Schmeling

TWO BUCK TEAMS MAKE APPEARANCE

COLUMBUS, —Varsity swimming and wrestling squads make their 1931 debuts this week at Ohio State University. On Friday, the first swimming team in Ohio State history is to make its bow against Western Reserve at Cleveland.

The wrestling team, under Coach Bernard Mooney, also makes its first 1931 appearance against Western Reserve on Saturday afternoon. The bouts are to be held in the men's gymnasium. Due to graduation losses, Ohio State must depend to a great extent upon sophomore material.

Another feature of the week's activities will be the first "double header" basketball game for Ohio State. Both the Indiana varsity and "B" teams will be met Monday at Bloomington. This will be the third game in seven days for the Buckeyes and the first time that the Ohio State reserve squad has appeared on the same floor with the varsity in a Big Ten match.

On Saturday night, Michigan's floor forces invade Columbus for the last at-home basketball game for a month. The Buckeyes will not return to their own floor until February 16 when Chicago comes here.

DO-X TO TRY OCEAN TRIP

NEW YORK.—The world's largest plane, the Dornier DO-X, will be seen in the United States later in March or early in April if present plans for its cruise to this continent are carried out. Lieut. Clarence H. Schildhauer said today before sailing for Lisbon to join the plane's crew. He is a former United States navy pilot and now co-pilot of the huge flying boat.

The DO-X arrived at Lisbon late last year for its flight across the Atlantic after a fire in one wing caused elaborate repairs. These repairs are about completed and the take-off from the Cape Verde Islands from Lisbon will be made the latter part of this month, according to present plans, Lieut. Schildhauer said.

"From the Cape Verde Islands, we will continue our flight 1,200 miles across the south Atlantic to Fernando Noronha and thence down the Brazil coast to Rio de Janeiro," he said. "From Rio we will fly north and hope to reach Miami early in March. The flight may be continued north from Florida to New York."

The maximum speed of the plane is 127 miles an hour and it can carry 16 tons of fuel and passengers, the lieutenant said.

More than 5,000 farmers have enrolled in the correspondence course in poultry farming conducted by the poultry department at the Ohio State University.

MAY CUT OHIO PEN NUMBERS

COLUMBUS, O.—A proposal that the population of Ohio's penal institution be reduced as a substitute for the recommendation that the state legislature boost expenditures of new buildings was being considered today by members of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Indications are that the chamber's board of directors will suggest that the solons revise the state's criminal laws, restore the indeterminate sentence act, and extend the systems of parole and probation, thus providing for increased liberation of prisoners.

"Ohio's system makes full-fledged criminals out of those who are only criminally inclined," said one member of the chamber.

Consideration of the executive budget, sent to the legislators this week by Governor Myers Y. Cooper, recommending expenditures of millions of dollars of state funds during the next two years, featured a meeting of the chamber's committee on public expenditures here late Friday. Special attention was given the recommendation that $7,033,950 be spent for the reconstruction of the plants of state institutions.

Figures were presented showing that more than 54 out of every 100,000 of Ohio's population are inmates of some penal institution, while in Massachusetts the number is only 17.7 in Pennsylvania only 18 and in Illinois, 25 out of every 100,000 persons.

"Nobody can convince me that Ohio tops the list in crime," declared C. A. Dyer, Columbus, a member of the committee.

ARMY FORCES BEATEN

SHANGHAI—Large punitive army forces sent into Kiangsi and Yunnan provinces by the Chinese nationalist government to subdue invading communist bands have met with severe reverses, it was reported here. The reds in Kiangsi territory have practically surrounded and isolated the troops while defeat has been suffered by those in Yunnan section.

Chicago is said to have a fund for the investigation of "human behavior." Than Chicago there is no more fertile field.

BIGGEST R. O. T. C. AT OHIO STATE U.

COLUMBUS—Ohio State University has the largest Reserve Officers' Training Corps in the United States, according to the land grant college and university survey just published by the U. S. office of education. The report showed that Ohio State in 1928-9 has 2,596 students enrolled in military education, followed by the University of Illinois with 3371, University of Minnesota, 2913; Texas A. & M. 2669; Penn State 1966, and Cornell, 1903.

Enrollment in the Ohio State University R. O. T. C. for the fall quarter of 1930 was 3736. It is understood here that the Ohio State unit is still the largest at any of the land grant colleges.

In point of the number of officers and men who served in the World War and who had had military training in land grant colleges, Ohio State was second only to Cornell University, according to the survey. Cornell was first among 39 schools reporting on this phase with 6850 officers and enlisted men in the army, navy, and marine corps. Ohio State in second place accounted for 6561, of whom 1959 were officers and 4602 were in the ranks.

Others among the first ten in the total number of men in the World War, according to the survey were: University of Illinois, 6290; Mississippi A. & M., 5723; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 5619; University of California, 4158; Iowa State College, 4110; University of Minnesota, 3527; University of Tennessee, 2875; and Texas A. & M., 2300.

University of Illinois supplied the largest number of officers, 3,280, while Cornell was second with 3030. Ohio State during the war had one major general and three brigadier generals according to the report.

Among the colleges and universities listed, Cornell had the most war dead with 240. It was followed in order by University of Illinois with 181, Iowa State College with 118, Ohio State with 116, and M. I. T. with 110. Of the Ohio dead, 51 were officers and 65 in the ranks.

OHIO EMPLOYMENT SHOWS INCREASE

COLUMBUS, O.—Improvement in industrial employment conditions in Ohio in December over those of November is reported by the bureau of business research, Ohio State University, in its monthly report. As compared with a five-year average decline of 1 per cent for the month from November, total industrial employment in the state gained 1 per cent last month, the report says.

Manufacturing employment in Ohio also increased 1 per cent in December from November in contrast with a five-year average November-to-December decrease of 1 per cent. Both total industrial employment and manufacturing employment for 1930 were well behind that of the previous year. The 1 per cent gain in manufacturing employment in December from November was caused, the report explains, by "the 1 per cent increase in the chemicals, the machinery, the metal products, and the vehicles industries. The 2 per cent increase in the rubber industries, and the 5 per cent increase in the paper and paper products industries."

Non-manufacturing industries, too showed a gain in employment in December from November, the increase being 6 per cent as compared with the five-year average gain for the month of 5 per cent. Construction employment in the state, on the other hand, fell off 17 per cent from that of November, which was slightly more than the five-year, average for the month.

"In all of the chief cities of the state, except Cleveland, Cincinnati and Youngstown," the report adds, "there was an increase in total industrial employment in December from November, the increase amounting to 2 per cent in Toledo, 4 per cent in Akron and Dayton, and 5 per cent in Columbus. The increase was more than seasonal in all the cities."

Why argue daylight saving now? There isn't much daylight to save.
